

Research Recruitment Opportunity: Provide Feedback on a Drought and Health Communication Toolkit

Are you a public health professional or healthcare provider in the Missouri River Basin? We want your expertise!

The University of Nebraska Medical Center is seeking participants to provide feedback on a newly developed Drought and Health Communication Toolkit designed to help communities and professionals effectively respond to drought-related health challenges.

Who Can Participate?

- Public health professionals (state or local level) and Healthcare providers (physicians, nurses, etc.)
- Must work in one of the following states: Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wyoming

What's Involved?

- A 60-minute Zoom session to review and discuss the toolkit
- Participants will receive a $15 gift card as a token of appreciation

How to Participate

If interested, please complete the interest form at <https://forms.office.com/r/ZgYxMVxGQf> or use the QR code here.

For more information, please contact Summer Woolsey at summer.woolsey@unmc.edu.